In 2009, when she was assigned to protect a nuclear scientist, she was attacked by the Winter Soldier, who was sent to kill the scientist. Though she and the scientist were pushed over a cliff, Romanoff managed to save both herself and the man she was protecting. Seeing this, the Winter Soldier fired a single round through Romanoff's stomach and into the scientist, effectively killing him.

As a follow-up to Tuesday's post about the majority-minority public schools in Oslo, the following brief account reports the latest statistics on the cultural enrichment of schools in Austria. Vienna is the most fully enriched location, and seems to be in roughly the same situation as Oslo. Many thanks to Hermes for the translation from Unzensuriert.at:

Not quite a film about our enemy (as the Russians were an uncomfortable ally during the Second World War, after all), but given our Cold War history and that the ally was a tenuous one during the Second World War, the film remains something not often seen: The Second World War told from a different perspective.
