DSM-IV and DSM-5 Criteria for the Personality Disorders

The DSM-5 contains a number of significant changes from the earlier DSM-IV. 5 The most immediately obvious change is the shift from using Roman numerals to Arabic numbers. Perhaps most notably, the DSM-5 eliminated the multi-axial system. Instead the DSM-5 lists categories of disorders along with a number of different related disorders.

The DSM-5 outlines specific criteria to help professionals diagnose generalized anxiety disorder. Having a standard set of symptoms to reference when assessing clients helps them to more accurately diagnose mental health concerns and, in turn, create a more effective plan of care. Criteria for Diagnosing GAD
